"Once again, I am walking to honor my three daughters - Grace Marie, who was lost to a 2nd trimester miscarriage on 6.14.03, and my precious miracle twins, Margaret Rose and Katherine Patricia, who were born 6 weeks early on 1.13.05 after an extremely difficult pregnancy. They have grown from tiny preemies to active toddlers who challenge and delight us every single day."

'08- SA's Team Aidan

On May 16, 2007, my son Aidan Grey Campbell was born still at 22 weeks and 2 days. Quite simply, there is nothing worse than losing a child. Of course, along with the loss of your child, there is the loss of your dreams and hopes for that child.

After May 16th I knew that I would never be able to do all the things I had planned to do with Aidan. There would be no trips to the aquarium or to the zoo. I would never get to comfort him after he got hurt or kiss him goodnight. Never again could I hold him in my arms or tell him "I love you." All the usual ways that mothers get to share their love and affection with their child were no longer available to me.

Instead, I had to find other ways to show how much I love my son.

The MODS' March for Babies was one wonderful way for me and my husband to show our friends and family just how important Aidan is to us. Our SA team was named "Team Aidan Campbell" to honor Aidan's memory. On our MODS' website, we were able to share Aidan's story. As the donations came pouring in, we found ourselves overwhelmed not only by the generosity shown, but also by the thoughtful responses we received.

When we walked with the other twelve members of Team Aidan, it was an uplifting experience seeing all of us in our matching t-shirts and knowing that we were all there because of how important Aidan was to us. I know Aidan was very proud of us that day. I think he was especially proud of his grandmother who walked the entire 5.2 miles even though she suffers permanent damage from a stroke. And perhaps, even more rewarding is the thought that the money we raised to honor Aidan may prevent other families from having to suffer the same tremendous loss.
